SEES THEM GIVE BETTER CAFFE PEOPLE Who Interest You and What They Are Doing

Because It Was Frowned on Formerly No Reason Why It Should Be Now

New York, April 13.—"I've granted a lot of divorces in my time and I'm glad of it. I like to grant divorces. I believe a divorce means the beginning of a better life for both parties concerned."

Thus casually does George A. Bartlett, retired New York judge, speak of his remarkable career, during which he granted approximately 15,000 divorces.

JUDGE SPEARS FRANKLY
But when Judge Bartlett speaks of many things which some people mention only in whispers, he is frank. In his opinion, the divorce is a "men, women and child" which was released last week by Putnam.

Which Bartlett is in New York in the week's end. He is returning from active judicial life in England after 11 years at the High Bench, he says.

"My basic idea about this marriage and divorce business is that we must approach the subject with open minds. First, because our people of two generations ago were not so open-minded. In no reason why we should frown upon it, may be a very good thing for us."

THINGS HAVE CHANGED.
"Changing times and particularly changing economic conditions have changed many of our views. I think on the conditions of marriage, along with other archaic things, will soon go into the discard."

"We cannot depend upon pressure to settle in this matter, which so vitally affects the happiness of the individuals who make up our nation."

Judge Bartlett particularly commends the divorce laws of New York state as being "simple and efficient." Also, he believes in the dissemination of birth control information.

Judge Bartlett's friend, Mrs. Marjorie Durrant, of Old Westbury, L. I., who, he says, wrote a book on the subject, is at his side. The book, which was written on a started public, has been one of the "best sellers" which went to make up his divorcing career, and she expresses great faith in his opinions.

THEY WERE ALL
which to arrest Galvin that I have to arrest Hathaway's mother and mother and Galvin's wife and mother on the same charge.

They all knew about it. "It was Galvin and his wife who told the police. Galvin is innocent of any connection with the crime."

NEW TIME CLUE
With his own case prepared for presentation to the attorney-general said he was merely marking time awaiting Massachusetts to end its investigation of possible jurisdiction.

One of his own investigations, he said, is working with Massachusetts authorities on the story that at 9:30 on the murder night an automobile that was not Hathaway's turned in the lane at Riverport where, next day, Miss Russell's body was found.

Despite his previous announcement that the autopsy set 10 p. m. as the death hour, he said he placed little significance in the clue.

Massachusetts authorities place considerable significance in it, however, and also in the story of their witness who declined to enlighten Rhode Island state police regarding what he knew because of what might happen to him.

FEARED JAIL
The Boston Evening American has learned that the witness sealed his lips voluntarily after a grilling at the hands of the Rhode Island state police on the day the attorney-general's body of the witness was found.

At that time, the witness has reported, he became so terrified at the manner in which the investigation was handled and at the prospect of going to jail that he denied having any knowledge of the events of the murder night.

Since then he has related something of what he knows to a close friend, Albert Winslow, who has already signed prominently in the investigation of the murder of the body of the witness in Winslow's investigation that the dead girl's body was found.

PAID STIFF OBLIVION
Winslow has turned over this information to the Massachusetts state police with the added information that the witness is still not revealing all he knows about the crime. He told state officers he believed the witness would not tell the entire story.

Galvin's mother was still sitting up when they returned and Galvin suddenly blurted out the story to her. She was paralyzed with shock and died a few days later.

The three talked together for several minutes and Galvin repeated to the police. Galvin's mother joined her plea with his and both told the youth the girl might still be alive. His was dead to all their plans, however, and, after smoking, refusing to go.

Galvin finally went to his wife's bedroom, she had retired and did not get up when he returned. Hathaway missed him a few minutes later and shouted to his mother.

RECORDED TIME
"Where has he gone?" "He's gone in to tell Laura," Mrs. Galvin answered.

"Take her to the car," shouted Hathaway. "He's gone to tell the cops. I'm going to beat it. They won't get me."

He then flung himself out of the house and drove away. That was the last any of the Galvin family saw or heard of him until his surrender, the Boston American has learned.

Galvin had arrested his wife and held his watch in front of her face telling her to note the time. She was a few minutes after 3 a. m. She asked him what the trouble was and he answered "Just a matter of time, it's very important."

He then told her what had happened and how he felt he should report the matter to police, but did not wish to tell on his best friend. He and his wife finally went to the Hathaway home arriving there about 2:30. The door was opened by Ellen, Elliott's twin brother, who summoned his father. Galvin related the night's events and the father's response was to the effect that they would wait until morning and then see what could be done.

Then came the hours of indecision, in which Galvin has related, he battled with his duty as he saw it, and his friendship for Hathaway. He finally went to police headquarters and reported the affair. This was at 5:30 a. m. before the early morning visit of Mr. and Mrs. Galvin to the Hathaway home. At that time, Mrs. Galvin's composed manner was at odds with a father's reaction to what was supposedly his first knowledge of his son's crime.

MORE CLUES FOUND
They will continue their probe today and more new leads to work on than at any time since they entered the case two days ago. It is known that Det.-Atty. Magrath received several bits of evidence during the past two days.

Mr. Magrath, Boston pathologist will confer with Dr. Peaslee, Treasurer Hospital pathologist, tomorrow. Dr. Peaslee was at the scene of the murder, body of the girl, Charles Bryant, Tiverton medical examiner.

This is the first time that Dr. Magrath will have had personal contact with anyone connected with the autopsy, and their meeting Dr. Peaslee made a highly important factor in the examination of the girl and determined that she had not been attacked. It is also possible that Dr. Magrath may meet Mrs. Bryant tomorrow. The latter is on his way East from Chicago and may arrive in Providence tomorrow.

SIX JOIN RACE FOR POST AS SPEAKER

Many Candidates Seeking the Place Left Vacant by Longworth's Death

Washington, April 13 (AP)—Returned from paying last tribute to their popular and powerful leader, Nicholas Longworth, House Republicans today contemplated the difficult task of choosing his successor.

Republican Leader Tilton and Chairman Reel of the rules committee stood forth as among the leading Eastern candidates.

From the West, the names of Minkner and Mapes of Michigan, Ramseyer of Iowa, Hoch of Kansas and Purnell of Indiana, were prominently mentioned, with Minkner and Ramseyer gaining strong consideration.

Cincinnati, O., April 13 (AP)—Mr. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the late Speaker of the House, Nicholas Longworth, has no place for the immediate future other than to remain in mourning at "Rockwood," the Longworth home here.

The bed room was toppled over on its side, with the cab projecting over a 20-foot embankment. Flames broke out in the cab and burned for three hours.

The second engine ripped up a lot of roadbed, sliced around and was badly damaged.

one "would you kindly give us one of your typical dreams for interpretation?"

A typical dream with many is a dream of doing something really worth while in the world, and a typical awakening is the realization that the dream cannot come true. It is a dream that comes with youth, and fades as years pass.

An interesting dream is the "fading dream," said by evolutionists to date from the day when we lived in trees and our spirits for her late husband.

Another interesting dream is of swimming with terrific power and ease, supposed to date back to days before we had left the ocean and climbed up on land.

Dreams that come in sleep, depending on what you have eaten, are not important.

Nino Peccaro, professional medium, who has retired from the business of talking with spirits, confesses that all the seances were fraudulent. Lady Conan Doyle renews the statement that Peccaro called down spirits for her late husband.

The laws of physics are not violated, and scientific talk, writs, his photographed, play the tambourine or lift a table.

Nevertheless many mediums are perfectly sincere and believe their own words, as do rainmakers and witch doctors in the jungle. The easiest accomplishment in the world is to deceive yourself.

Washington reports that bootlegging has been selling for prices constantly diminishing for 10 years past. Prices for the quantity known as "bathtub gin" have fallen as low as 75 cents a quart.

The United States government cannot compete with drug racketeers in the business of selling "bathtub gin" to consumers. The racketeers are actually selling below the price of gin in 1913.

Those that manage prisoners on New York's Welfare Island are struggling vainly against the "inside racket in drugs."

State Treas. Hurley Represents Gov. Ely at Services in St. Mary's

Cambridge bade farewell today to Henry F. Lohan, city treasurer.

While city business paused, officials, friends and school children paid tribute to a slain funeral moved slowly through crowded streets.

State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley, representing Governor Ely, five members of the legislature, and six former mayors of the University City were included in the honorary pallbearers.

With a profusion of flowers, the casket of the late treasurer was borne from his home at 209 Broadway by 18 of his closest friends.

En route to St. Mary's Church, Norfolk at the historic ruins formed a square of 80 persons around the hearse and the active hearse.

Police and firemen lined the streets as the hearse moved and school children, dismissed for the day, were with the hearse.

Boston Girl to Wed Soon

Miss Theodora Marie Winslow and August L. Noel of New York Are Engaged

EACH WEEK SEES MANY engagements announced and quite out of the usual manner of things is that wedding dates soon follow. Long engagements seem to be going out of fashion. An announcement of great interest is that of the engagement of Miss Theodora Marie Winslow, daughter of Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Cameron McRae Winslow of Commonwealth ave., to Mr. August L. Noel of New York.

MISS WINSLOW is a member of the Junior League and is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Havens of New York and Newport, and of the late Commodore and Mrs. Francis Winslow. Mr. Noel studied at the Bronx Arts in Paris, and belongs to the Knickerbocker, Brook and Tennis and Racquet Clubs. The wedding is expected to take place in June in Newport.

Miss Ida Newcomb to Become Bride of Warburton G. Iselin

MR. AND MRS. E. CLIFFORD NEWCOMB of Newcomb, who heads the luncheon on Saturday, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ida Elizabeth, to Warburton G. Iselin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Iselin of New York. Miss Newcomb is a graduate of Chittenden High School, and was graduated from Harvard and is at present attached to the Gorton Institute. The wedding will probably take place in June.

CARDS ARE OUT FOR THE wedding of Miss Suzanne Armstrong to Mr. Samuel E. Crocker, Jr., in St. Thomas's church in New York the middle of April. Mr. Crocker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Crocker of Stockbridge and also of the Gorton School. Fashionable Boston will be represented in the list of letters.

MR. AND MRS. JASPER WHITING have returned from Mexico, where they have been for three months, and have opened their apartment at 48 Beacon st.

MRS. GILPIN R. IRVIN of Manchester-by-the-Sea, who heads the Junior League committee for the American Red Cross, will have a meeting of her committee at the Junior League today.

MISS ANNESTOWN ROYDEN and Mr. Moses Winthrop, whose marriage will take place this summer, have decided upon Bermuda for their wedding trip. This would seem as though the wedding date might be soon.

Boston Folk Sail Tomorrow on Cruise to Mediterranean

MRS. J. COLBY BARRETT and her daughter, Miss Charlotte, who is a student at Smith College, are sailing on the Mediterranean cruise which leaves New York tomorrow. They are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Putnam, who are also sailing on this cruise with their daughter Harriet.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM D. TICKNOR of New York returned home from abroad last week where they have been visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ticknor, Jr., in France. They are opening their apartment in New York, to welcome their son, Benjamin Ticknor, who goes home from Harvard for the spring vacation.

Chiffon Dress at the Home or Church

BY ANN ARDEN "THE BRIDE'S mother story" — nearly every wedding story in the paper carries such a telling paragraph — and so it behooves said mother to look most charming! Whether she succumbs to a tear or two at the end or not, she must look poised and dignified in an appropriate gown.

AFTERNOON fashions have never been more flattering to the older woman. She can find chiffon and lace, and probably the most popular, as are the semi-sheer silks. Light shades that are not "girlish" looking harmonize well with whatever color scheme prevails in the wedding party itself.

LIKE THE bridemaid, the mother of the bride finds the formal frock with jacket the most useful.

GRACEFUL summary and charming is the costume pictured of beige and black lace. Beige lace fashions the upper portion of the gown, which has a shallow V neckline, and deep sleeves that narrow to bell sleeves with beaded trim.

THE HAT is of black lace, but is brim upturned on the left side, and marked with bow of black velvet, run through braid of ornamental of brilliant.

THIS is an ideal costume for the mother of the bride, or for a wedding guest, dressed with the important charm of maturity. Now it is smart to admit a few years. Marilynn, in this dress, is a charming individuality rather than an unbecoming youthfulness.

YEARS OF grace! That is exactly what Paris now promises to those in the social years of discretion! But as for long, waitresses are defined, less flatter with subtle detailing — all such as means of a boon to the older woman. Marilynn, in this dress, is a charming individuality rather than an unbecoming youthfulness.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashion generally. Address your queries to the important charm of maturity. Now it is smart to admit a few years. Marilynn, in this dress, is a charming individuality rather than an unbecoming youthfulness.

Gala Crowds See Racing

BY GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR. Universal Service Special Cable

Paris, April 13.—Hundreds of the fashionably dressed yesterday flocked to the Bois de Boulogne for the annual Longchamp inaugural, which rang up the curtain on the 1931 Paris season.

It was a day made to order. The bright sun of a perfect mid-April day gave the track a fitting background for the parade of fashion.

The biggest surprise came when Georges Widemann's Vauxaux II ran away with the feature prize, outdistancing Baron Rothschild's favorite, White Bull, and paying 13-1.

Senora Marinette de Mot, whose husband's Tetracurus managed to place second in the secondary feature, appeared in a black cloth ensemble trimmed with silver fox. Her escort was decorated with a feather design.

The Princesses Amende de Broglie wore a black cloth coat with the collar and cuffs trimmed with beaded white, and a striped calicoe skirt, with a pattern of small white roses. Mrs. Elliot Rogers had on a black cloth coat trimmed with astrakhan and wore a straw hat.

TWO STATES BATTLE FOR HATHAWAY

RHODE ISLAND FALL RIVER MASSACHUSETTS

ISABELLE O'NEIL DR. MAGNATH

ON WHICH SIDE OF LINE?
Who'll win the "Law's" tug of war? The battle that will cause Elliott R. Hathaway to go before a jury in Rhode Island or in Massachusetts has brought Dr. George Burgess Magrath, famed pathologist, into the case. Will the "knot-in-rope" finally rest over Rhode Island or will persuasive Massachusetts evidence bring the winning "cloth" over the Massachusetts side of the "battle center." In Rhode Island, State Senator Isabelle A. O'Neil has demanded a more thorough investigation of the crime.

VICTIM OF TRAGEDY

The pretty nurse, Verna Russell, was strangled, according to police reports. Was it in Massachusetts that her life was ended? Massachusetts officials insist that the crime was committed within the borders of the Bay State and that the body was moved into Tiverton, R. I.

LIFE IN JAIL
Atty-Gen. Benjamin M. McLymen, of Rhode Island, has Elliott R. Hathaway in jail. Possession is nine points of law, McLymen insists that the pretty nurse was killed in Rhode Island. The battle of state jurisdiction is like a tug of war. If convicted, the guilty man would serve a life term in Rhode Island.

DO DRAMATIC GIRL'S BODY SLAYER RUSH TO DOCTOR?

Miss Russell insisted they have some gin if they had any liquor. That Hathaway knew gin was too strong for him and insisted on having some ginger ale. That Miss Russell and that his mind went blank. That he remembered nothing that occurred from the time he started to drink until he came to himself in New York and read in a paper there of the murder and determined to return and give himself up at once.

"CAN'T REMEMBER"

"And he didn't shave his mustache until just before Atty-Gen. McLymen arrived at Atty-Gen. added Jacobs. The papers had printed McLymen's story that Hathaway was just finishing a shave when the attorney-general reached. But the fact, Mr. Jacobs said, "He cannot remember what happened to it" was the lawyer's answer.

Atty-Gen. McLymen has ordered a very painstaking autopsy and this was made by Dr. Bryant. It definitely showed strangulation to have been the cause of death. McLymen announced.

From somewhere among the mass of rumors and conjecture emerged a story that Miss Russell had suffered from a weak heart. That Jacobs, in a talk with newspapermen about Hathaway spoke of a man discovering that a girl with a weak heart had up and died while she was with him—and demanded.

"What would you have done? Would you have killed her?" he asked. "No, I would not," he said. "I would have called a doctor."

Two bodies, having the appearance of beer bottles, were picked up near the Tiverton lane. Both were empty. They were wrapped for fingerprints and later looked up in Atty-Gen. McLymen's safe.

ORGANS ANALYZED

Before burial of the victim, her vital organs were removed and taken by Dr. Lester Brown, Rhode Island state pathologist and health commissioner, for examination.

A part of the contents of the stomach was analyzed. While pathologists were still engaged in the analysis there was a widespread report that traces of strychnine had been found, evidence that an attempt at retaliation had been made following the murder, when Atty-Gen. McLymen said he had received an "offer." Later, when the report was made to him, the

Freedom

Miss Elizabeth Sanford Blye of Boston, who appeared as "Love of Freedom" in the Carnival of Imagination, held Saturday, at the Plaza Hotel in New York, for the benefit of a New York charity. She wore a hat atop of which was a model of the famous Mayflower.

Hathaway in jeopardy of the electric chair. Vernon Galvin was subjected to a rigid examination by Dr. Atty. Crossley and the detectives. They took him, at midnight to the place in Tiverton where, he claims Hathaway first showed him the body. They took him to the spot where, he claims, he and Hathaway purchased gin before going to the body.

POLICE MISS HIM

"The following day State Detectives Ferrari and Stokes went through Galvin's home, digging holes in the cellar, knocking on walls. They didn't find the fur coat."

"Was Hathaway drunk, Mr. Galvin, when he came to your home—when you and he went to the murder scene?" He was not drunk, Galvin asserted. He had been drinking, he was not drunk.

He was sober enough to have driven an automobile to Boston and stood a police dragnet set for him throughout New England—sober enough to make a laughing stock of certain policemen.

Throughout the investigation, at least on the Massachusetts side of the state line, runs the intimation that Hathaway, or whoever killed Miss Russell, had help that night, not in the actual murder but in disposal of the corpse and the crime. There enters the case at this stage an unidentified Fall River man, who states that a friend of his saw Hathaway's automobile on the fateful night, parked outside the office of a Fall River physician.

Then the theory that the girl slayer rushed her body to the office of a doctor friend where an attempt with an oxygen machine was made to revive her.

When her teeth forced from her mouth during such an attempt? Did they fall out in a doctor's office? Were they overlooked when the body was taken to Tiverton? Were they found the next day by the doctor, recognized as damaging evidence against himself and concealed by the doctor?

There is an argument over priority rights in the line. The woman's call is urgent.

HELPS MURDER PROBES

Albert O. Gray, farmer at Tiverton, R. I., has recalled that he saw an auto enter the lane on the Winward estate the night Verna Russell was slain. Another Tiverton man will be questioned today. State Detective Joseph Ferrari questioned Gray yesterday. (Staff photo.)

Massachusetts or Rhode Island? Granting that Hathaway was with the girl when she died—and no such admission has yet been made by his defense—it would be exceptionally strong evidence against a first degree murder charge if it were brought out that Hathaway sought aid to attempt reviving her.

There would be a fairly conclusive case that the crime was not premeditated. A man might intentionally strangle a girl to death, then experience a sudden fear of the consequences, or sudden remorse or pity for the victim, that might send him seeking aid to bring her back to life. But that possibility is a remote one.

Another article in the review of this strange case will be published in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

Notre Dame Alumni Attend Rockne Mass
Notre Dame alumni, former associates of the athletic field and personal friends of the late Knute Rockne, this morning attended a solemn high memorial mass for the deceased football mentor at St. Ignace chapel at Boston College.

Rev. James H. Dolan, president of the college, was the celebrant. Among the ushers were Edward L. Casey, Harvard football coach; Luke L. Kelly, former Notre Dame football captain; Charles F. Baine, president of the Notre Dame Club; Joseph McKenna, head coach at Boston College; Dr. James J. Lynch, secretary of the Notre Dame Club; and John McManus, former Notre Dame star line.

WAITS IN JAIL FOR DECISION

Will Massachusetts, the home state of Elliott R. Hathaway, try him for the killing of Verna Russell? Or will Rhode Island, the home state of the victim, try him? Evidence reported to be in hands of police indicate that two persons carried Verna's body to the Tiverton lane.

$50 Weekly for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor at Liberty 4000.

What is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event while it is happening. Bring your pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or the most unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips.

GALLO'S DEATH SENTENCE NEAR

Samuel Gallo, convicted of slaying Joseph Fantasia in Prince st., North End, June 11, 1927, will be sentenced this week to die in the electric chair at State Prison.

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley said today that Judge William A. Burns, before whom Gallo was tried, is presiding in Superior Court at Pittsfield but will come to Boston some time during the week to sentence Gallo.

As Gallo was convicted of first degree murder, it is compulsory by law that he be executed.

ELY PROCLAIMS ARBOR DAY

Governor Ely today issued a proclamation setting apart Saturday, April 25, as Arbor and Bird Day, when he will plant a tree on the State House grounds. Governor Ely's proclamation says:

"I urge that the Friday preceding be observed in rural and suburban schools. It is highly desirable that our boys and girls be taught the significance and importance of this day and be encouraged with adult citizens to plant trees, shrubs and vines."

"In the rural sections there is great need of tree planting. The use of trees for lumber and firewood has seriously diminished the supply. The indifference or carelessness of some who travel over the State has set forest fires which have caused losses of millions. I strongly urge the need of great care to prevent forest fires."

PRICES IN NEW YORK

New York, April 13.—Prices were mixed today's trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Tobacco stocks again displayed strength.

Rail started lower, but their decline was checked when New York Central rallied rapidly over a point.

STOCKS

U. S. Steel sold over fractional range, but it was on the downside. Vanadium broke over a point.

Aluminum broke up 1/2 point in the first hour, then sold at a fractional figure over Saturday's close.

ARMOUR OF DELAWARE

Armour of Delaware preferred fell nearly 3 points to a new low, and a new low was made by American Bank Note, off over 2 points.
